William Shakespeare (1564-1616)

Sonnet 97

How like a winter hath my absence been

From thee, the pleasure of the fleeting<sup>1</sup> year!

What freezings have I felt, what dark days seen!

What old December's bareness every where!

5 And yet this time removed<sup>2</sup> was summer's time

The teeming<sup>3</sup> autumn, big with rich increase<sup>4</sup>,

Bearing the wanton burden of the prime<sup>5</sup>,

Like widow'd wombs after their lords' decease:

Yet this abundant issue<sup>6</sup> seem'd to me

10 But hope of orphans and unfather'd fruit;

For summer and his pleasures wait on thee,

And, thou away, the very birds are mute<sup>7</sup>:

Or, if they sing, 'tis with so dull a cheer,

That leaves look pale, dreading the winter's near. (108 Wörter)

<sup>1</sup>fleeting quickly passing – <sup>2</sup>time removed absence – <sup>3</sup>teeming fruitful, fertile – <sup>4</sup>big with rich increase pregnant with fruitfulness – <sup>5</sup>Bearing the wanton burden of the prime delivering spring's uncontrolled fertility – <sup>6</sup>abundant issue rich harvest – <sup>7</sup>mute silent
