Sonnet 50

How heavy1 do I journey on the way,

When what I seek, my weary travel's end,

Doth teach that case and that repose<sup>2</sup> to say,

'Thus far the miles are measured from thy friend!'

5 The beast<sup>3</sup> that bears me, tired with<sup>4</sup> my woe,

Plods dully on, to bear that weight<sup>5</sup> in me,

As if by some instinct the wretch did know

His rider lov'd not speed being made from thee.

The bloody spur cannot provoke<sup>6</sup> him on,

10 That sometimes anger thrusts into his hide,

Which heavily<sup>7</sup> he answers with a groan,

More sharp to me than spurring to his side;

For that same groan doth put this in my mind,

My grief lies onward<sup>8</sup>, and my joy<sup>9</sup> behind. (118 Wörter)
